

Become a digital champion with DRIVE – train your employees for digitalization

With the new DRIVE e-learning platform from Voith, you can improve the digital know-how of your employees in a targeted way. In its first stage, the multi-level learning program offers interactive e-learnings on 21 different digital technologies and methods. This way, participants acquire basic digital knowledge, for example, regarding cloud computing, UX or smart factories. In the next stage, the focus is on practical relevance, such as interviews with proven experts or by highlighting possible changes in different job profiles.

DRIVE – start into your digital future now

- Improves digital skills for Industry 4.0
- Increases „IIoT readiness“ in your company
- Multi-level course program for beginners and advanced learners
- Customized programs through a wide selection of modules
- Practically oriented learning with elements of gamification

Want to play an active role in digitalization and upskill instead your employees for the new era? Give us a call and explore the right solution for your company. We look forward to hearing from you!
